Senior Class: Kaye, Stearns, Penton, R. Knight, Woodson, Powers, W. Anderson, Slichter, R. Palmer, Clark, Ellis, Matthews, Noyes, Saville, Osborne, Rapp. Rosenblatt, Williams, Segerstrom, Zimmerly, Batts, G. Yelder, Bonner, Pickett, Morrison, Gargiulo, Chess, Traband, F. Bennett, Metcalf, C. Henderson, Rodden, Morse, Robie, Lavender, de Sanz, Kent, Bernier, Cicerone, Pollard.

We dedicate these pages to three extraordinary men, to three teachers, to three dramatists whose acts we have all bought. To Mr. Hayward, whose caring, teaching, and directing we have benefitted from; to Mr. McDougall, whose door and heart are always open and whose make-up kit is never far from reach; and to Mr. Knight, whose classroom informed us and whose standards challenged us (and who put out a yearbook or two himself); we offer our thanks and take solace in their departure from the knowledge that, in leaving with them, we would miss them anyway.

THE CLOCK

The Clock, calm evil god, that makes us shiver,
With threatening finger warns us each apart: -
"Remember! soon the vibrant woes will quiver,
Like arrows in a target, in your heart.

To the horizon Pleasure will take flight
As flits a vaporous sylphide to the wings.
Each instant gnaws a crumb of the delight
That for his season every mortal brings.

Three thousand times and more, each hour, the second Whispers 'Remember!' Like an insect shrill
The present chirps, 'With Nevermore I'm reckoned.
I've pumped your lifeblood with my loathsome bill.'

Remember! Souviens-toi! Esto Memor!
My brazen windpipe speaks in every tongue.
Each moment, foolish mortal, is like ore
From which the precious metal must be wrung.

Remember. Time the gamester (it's the law)
Wins always, without cheating. Daylight wanes.
Night deepens. The abyss with gulfy maw Thirsts on unsated, while the hourglass drains.

Sooner or later, now, the time must be
When Hazard, Virtue (your still-virgin mate), Repentance (your last refuge), or all three -
Will tell you, 'Die, old Coward. It's too late!' "

- Charles Baudelaire

I sit beside the fire and think
Of all that I have seen,
Of meadow-flowers and butterflies
In summers that have been.

Of yellow leaves and gussamer
In autumns that there were,
With morning mist and silver sun
And the wind upon my hair.

I sit beside the fire and think
Of how the world will be
When winter comes without a spring
That I shall ever see.

For there are so many things
That I have never seen:
In every wood in every spring
There is a different green.

I sit beside the fire and think
Of people long ago,
And people who will see a world
That I shall never know.

NEVER GIVE ALL THE HEART

Never give all the heart, for love
Will hardly seem worth thinking of
To passionate women if it seem Certain, and they never dream
That it fades out from kiss to kiss;
For everything that's lovely is
But a brief, dreamy, kind delight.
O never give the heart outright,
For they, for all smooth lips can say,
Have given their hearts up to the play.
And who could play it well enough
If deaf and dumb and blind with love
He that made this knows all the cost,
For he gave all his heart and lost.

I have tried to outline my life with some basic ideals; love, sharing, helpfullness, appreciation, respect, a meeting of major responsibilities, and patience. With all these ideals in mind, my main objective in life is to be happy and to give happiness to others.

Happiness is having whom you can hug and hold close.

The greatest thing in life is staying sane through many bad experiences.

Happiness is seeing someone make a happy smile.

Enjoyment is being able to look back at all the happy things in life.

my fingernails make eight new moons temporarily in the cold salt marshes of my palms!
THIS IS THE WAY IT IS, and if it is "a terrible disgrace" it is as I must will,
because I am not them
though I an theirs to kill.

The objective of all dedicated professional students should be to thoroughly analyze all situations, anticipate all problems prior to their occurence, have answers for these problems, and move swiftly to solve these problems when called upon . . .

A man saw a ball of gold in the sky;
He climbed for it,
And eventually he achieved it -
It was clay.

Now this is the strange part:
When the man went to the Earth
And he looked again,
Lo, there was the ball of gold
Now this is the strange part:
It was a ball of gold
Aye, by the heavens, it was a ball of gold.

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that imitation is suicide; that he must take himself for better for worse as his portion; that through the wide universe is full of good, no kernel of nourishing corn can come to him but through his toil bestowed on that plot of ground which is given to him to till.

This seems to be an era of gratuitous inventions and negative improvements. Consider the beer can. It was beautiful - as beautiful as the clothespin, as inevitable as the wine bottle, as dignified and reassuring as the fire hydrant. A tranquil cylinder of delightfully resonant metal, it could be opened in an instant, requiring only the application of a handy gadget freely dispensed by every grocer. Who can forget the small, symmetrical thrill of those two triangular punctures, the dainty pffff, the little crest of suds that foamed eagerly in the exultation of release? Now we are given, instead, a top beetling with an ugly, shmoo-shaped "tab," which, after fiercely resisting the tugging, bleeding fingers of the thirsty man, threatens his lips with a dangerous and hideous hole. However, we have discovered a way to thwart Progress, usually so unthwartable. Turn the beer can upside down and open the bottom. The bottom is still the way the top used to be. True, this operation gives the beer an unsettling jolt, and the sight of a consistently inverted beer can might make people edgy, not to say queasy. But the latter difficulty could be eliminated if manufacturers would design cans that looked the same whichever end was up, like playing cards. What we need is Progress with an escape hatch.

Sometimes we watch the days go by, wishing they could last,
And we can't help but wonder why time must fly so fast.
But we can keep in memory
happy moments left behind,
And we can keep our special dreams of joys we hope to find -
And if we do the best we can through every day we live,
If we consider what we have as what we have to give,
If we will try to see some good in all that comes our way,
Then we will have mastered that very special art
Of growing rich in happiness while staying young at heart.

Leaves are falling all around It's time I was on my way.
Thanks to you, I'm much obliged
For such a pleasant stay.

And now it's time for me to go
The autumn moon lights my way.
But now, I smell the rain
And with it, pain
and it's headed my way.

Ah - sometimes I grow so tired.

Got no time to spend and weep
The time has come to be gone.
And tho' our health we drank a thousand times
Have to ramble on.

Mine's a tale that can't be told
My freedom I hold dear.
How many years ago in days of old
When the magic filled the air.

I met a girl so fair
But golem the evil one crept up
And slipped away with her
Her, Her . . . yea
Ain't nothing I can do.

I can only look, feel, dream and think. I have not to this day felt the air so pure, so lifegiving, so filling. To breath is a pleasure.

I am one with a passing bird. I delight in the bird's existence, floating in the blue space, passing from one horizon to another with a stroke of a wing. I know now that you must have a great deal of air below you before you can be concious of such an inner freedom as this, such lightness of your whole being.

Every element has it's poetry. But, the poetry of air is liberty, and the poetry of climbing is freedom.

I read it quickly: all the old clinchés
In simpler terms for students with no time
Or inclination for a definition
Of what they know, they think, too well already: time.
(Like skaters to whom ice is only space
That pays the swiftest foot with certainty)
They go too fast to doubt or to be convinced, and write K. SAYS ITS MODE PERCEPTION.
In my head, these days, the mode is Reason.

Let me examine all more carefully: THE THING
IS - 'You go too fast already,'
Caws Reason, like a rook or Robert Browning:
'For THING is singular, implies plurality - If Thing were all, who'd think to call it THING?
And how say THE unless the thing is picked
From something else: this presupposes space
And qualities - we pick it out by SOMEthing.
And that IS, that IS! I cannot bear that IS!'

I could bear more than that, I think.
With so much Reason there is no philosophy.
There's such a thing as going much too slow.
Just one's own warmth will wear through any ice
If one sits fishing long enough: the fisher
Falls to the Nothing whence he drew his fish
And never reappears except in textbooks.
Where he and his fish acquire a ghastly sheen
As though - as though the fish, at least, were rotten.
Randall Jarrell

Just before our love got lost you said,
"I am as constant as a northern star."
And I said, "constantly in the darkness where's that at? If you want me I'll be in the bar."

THE ROMANTIC WARRIOR

Standing bold Romantic Warrior Timeless one in armour gold giving your message to warriors all the victory of victories is about to be told

Don't succumb to the sorceress warriors tarnishing your purpose bright have your senses yet to have their fill of battles old and fearsome stories told each night

You've wandered off the path my warrior friends those pictures painted in your weary eyes tell of age old times gone by when you fought and jousted cross the skies

In those battled faces etched so deep are stories of those gruesome duels when locked in combat for a thousand years you earned the title tyrants cruel

But even in those loud victorious cries the magician spun a strange defeat for as you smote from view the jester bright your battered selves lay at your feet

The sadness in your hearts ring out protesting those whose silent will led you to this bloodstained trail and you can't recall deciding to kill

Pick up the gauntlet warriors sheath your swords put up your trusty lance channel the power used to crush every foe into giving the future a chance

Believe in yourselves old warriors bold create a path so firm and sure fight for the birth of the freedom of man the end of this medieval overture.

To show love,
is to try to explain the universe - it entails golden strands of pure bondage,
Love is fresh and clean and majestic - it is a feeling that encompasses much,
it is an expression of life at it's essentiality, Caring-loving,
devotion comes through trying times of togetherness . . .
Comfort and understanding,
openness and honesty,
all build the foundation for a never ending tower.
K.L.R.

. . . to influence a person is to give him one's own soul. He does not think his natural thoughts, or burn with his natural passions. His virtues are not real to him. His sins, if there are such things as sins, are borrowed. He becomes an echo of some one else's music, an actor of a part that has not been written for him. The aim of life is self-development. To realize one's nature perfectly - that is what each of us is here for. People are afraid of themselves, nowadays. They have forgotten the highest of all duties, the duty that one owes to one's self. Of course they arecharitable. They feed the hungry, and clothe the begger. But their own souls starve.

Oscar Wilde

Why can't we get all the people together in the world that we really like and then just stay together? I guess that wouldn't work. Someone would leave. Someone always leaves and then we have to say good-bye.
